FOOTBALL TO DAY: We often invoke the spiral thrust, employ the forward pass, and resort to trick plays galore right here around the luncheon tables, - and all calculated to down the other fellow in ribaldry and repartee. That's the indoor style of football with this club of ours. To day, Dick ^{Blumett} Lewis, coach of the Santa Rosa Junior High School squad, is going to play the game for us in his own peculiar fashion - in a practical football talk. So says Hollis Holbrook, Chairman of the Day.

HELPLESS: Yes, we're utterly unable to "write up" last week's doings. Of course, it's simple enough to make mention of Mr. L.H. Moore's clear cut talk on Safety With An Automobile. His words should have a lasting imprint on all of us. But other things happened. Call it nonsense, levity, horseplay, or what you may; but one thing is certain, that to reproduce the same in print - well, it just cannot be done.

JUST A FEW ITEMS: Walt Marshall's "fair trial" on charges of Motor Vehicle Law infractions ended with a swift dispensing of justice, - every bit as effectively as the most recent kidnappers will get theirs. Another situation: Al Garrett appeared on the scene. Once again Al demonstrated his religious inclination by piping in on a song written to the tune of Onward Christian Soldiers - Al's ever favorite sacred anthem. And at this juncture, appearing on the program was Big Bill Rumbold, the huge superdreadnaught of the club. Bill took it upon himself to sing sonorously and sweet while meandering down the aisle to the head table. And Fred Cairns, Irish-like, pretended and professed purity of character and soul while aspersions fast flowed his way. These are mere hints at what transpired on Tuesday last.
