Fellow Kiwanian: Last week Tony was bound and determined ----- to bring talent from abroad. And in a measure he succeeded, too. For while the speaker is a citizen of ours, he was born in the land of the Celts. Mussolini just couldn't make the grade. But his praise was sung by Father O'Reilly, who also gave us a beautiful picture of the Emerald Isle. Tony's musical little daughter did her part nicely, and "a good time was had by all".

TO DAY: Our handsome and talented Sargent At Arms, Eddie
----- Byrn, will wield the gavel and furnish the attendance prize. The Speaker of the Day will be Mr. Merrill Miller who will talk on the stock market situation, and he will give us an insight into the present financial set up.
Eddie has also made arrangements for some special music, both vocal and instrumental, and a full snappy program is assured.

ATLANTIC CITY: During the last week of June Past Pres----- ident Harold Miller will be on his way.
Be it known that Harold is our chosen delegate to the International Convention, President Jim Bowen being selected as alternate. Jim, you ought to make one grand splash to go along too. For aside from helping to represent us, and getting full - of Convention spirit, you could act as guide, skirmisher and perhaps rear guard to Harold. For he is still young and susceptible.

WANTED: Another member with a box of cigars. Those were ----- good smokes, "Hic". And here's hoping that your precedent is getting one or two more of our bachelor boys in the notion. Where there is union there is strength, and that's what we always want in Kiwanis.

FELLOW KIWANIAN: No need to camouflage this letter; for ----- April Fool is past. And what shall be said, or how shall we describe that hectic meeting of Tuesday last?
To do this would call forth the combined originality and the verbose eloquence such as were displayed at that memorable meeting. Suffice it to just jot down a few --

NOTES: Comedy and tragedy mixed. At first the last eclipsed.
----- And then the first.

Eddie Byrn is a natural born April Fool Chairman.

Merrill Miller can elocute to a "jury". And O, how he can speak. But in a manner whereby his client does sure get all the worst of it. For no humans can fathom his logic, nor translate his slang. Merrill, come again! You are sure some scream.

Floyd Darby, just wait till you run for District Attorney.
Those formaldehyded non-fusible cheroots were as rotten as the vote you may get from your Kiwanis victims.

Allen Gobbi, you had better not start any more Hoover stuff
while Mussolini is on the air.

Al Garrett finally won an attendance prize. CHECK.
Because of time and space we must turn to something else, viz:

PROGRAM TO DAY: Elmer Stenquist, Chairman. Mrs. Gertrude Scud-
----- der, speaker. This lady is to tell of the beautiful iris, its history, its place in the flora of the world; the same purple flower now commanding our admiration in Healdsburg gardens. Kiwanianse each, bring along an iris bouquet, and a vase or jar to support it while decorating the tables.

VISITORS: We had a good sprinkling of these last week, includ----- ing our new Chamber of Commerce manager and our new elementary school principal. Also, Mr. R. E. Ellsworth of the State Fish and Game Commission. His was a fine talk informally on the conservation of our California deer.

With fond recollections of April Fool day, we close.

HELLO, KIWANIAN:

... PROGRAM...

TUESDAY, APRIL 15TH.

"RELIGION AND BUSINESS", by Rev. E. E. Ingram of Santa Rosa. A few weeks ago we were told of the close analogy between farming and literature by Wilbur Hall. The speaker for to day, no doubt, will show us a marked relation between the spiritual and material. It will be different from those "exercises" on April Fools Day. It will differ, too, from the program of last week.

"SPEAKING OF": That treatise on the iris was surely a treat to us. Mrs. Scudder gave us a refreshing talk on that which we overlook only too often. Nature's beautiful creations, and we are surrounded by a wealth of these, should command our interest and appreciation far more in the future. Tho' largely engrossed with serious business matters, it is expected of Kiwanians, supposedly versatile men, to possess something of the aesthetic, something elevating and inspiring, and surely to be nature lovers at all times.

GIVE 'EM THE AX: That is just what our U.C. contingent did to the Stanford grads last Tuesday. That old rusty hatchet exchanged hands minus the tear gas, but with Cardinal tears of joy. The ceremony was impressive, but the ax itself was not so much. Supposed to have been reposing in safe deposit all those years, Eddie Beeson must have left out in the rain. Chairman for to day, Irving Rhoades.

NEVER CAN TELL: What is likely to crop up at our lunch hour at any moment is likely to be the unexpected. Maybe it's the sublime; maybe something different. To day it may be both.

DONT BE LAX - BE PRESENT AND RELAX.

Secretary.

DEAR MEMBER: This Kiwanis message is not exactly according ----- to the Gospels of Sts. John and Mark. However, a little more familiarity with these and we all might be better off. Those little booklets of inspired context, and offered as attendance prizes, were most appropriate at this Easter time.
Irving, you could not have presented a more needy token to this worldly (many of us) collection of careless cusses. He who has not glanced over the little tomes, let him beware of a penalty to day.

Rev. Ingram was forceful, fluent, fearless and frank in his treatise on The Business of Religion. His talk was on a high plane, logical and broad minded. Elmer's sacred solo was, of course, in keeping and in good rendition.

NOW FOR TO DAY: School will be in session. A Kiwanis school.
----- A class of a dozen or more; and a FACULTY all embodied in a single Prof. - Jim Coffman by name. Who will stand at the head of the class, who will play hockey; or which one will flunk out entirely, remains to be seen. Anyhow, we're going to have a chance to see who is who in Kiwanis teachings. Of course the whole assembly will sing, some in sharps and more in flats; and what else may crop up that is not on the cards - well, we'll just see. Oyes, Dr. Theodore Macklin representing the C.V.A. is down for a short talk. A fitting time to invite a few of our vineyard men, don't you think?

EMPTY CHAIRS: There were none such at our last meeting.
Thanks to our own well attenders and to a good sprinkling of guests. And here's a shot to members only:
Suppose hereafter we be on time, instead of 20 minutes late.

Secretary.

HEAR YE, KIWANIANIANS: This is a summons to appear at the Legion Hall, Healdsburg, California, Tuesday, April 29, at 12-10 sharp, P.M. to show cause why you should not be present. To skip a meeting is a Kiwanis misdemeanor, punishable on third offense by automatic retirement. If you are in town and not under the doctor's care beware of the Search Warrant.

A PERFECT SCORE: Last Tuesday the graduating class, majoring in Kiwanis Education, passed the final Exams. to the tune of 100%, and received the degree of G.K. (Good Kiwanian) at the hands of Jim, alias Judge, Coffman, President of the Faculty. The students came fully equipped, fortified, prepared to answer each and every question accurately, spontaneously and with apparent ease. Speaks well for the institution.

NOW FOR TO DAY: From the University of California comes an Agriculturist of the branch of Economics, Mr. E. I. Stokdyk, to speak to us on a subject of local and vital concern. Healdsburg farmers, a score of them, will be our guests and interested listeners. We look for a profitable hour and a full house.

INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION: Do we at times lose sight of our Parent organization? Without Kiwanis International we would not be on the map to day. Let us forget a little of the local aspect, and focus our thoughts in the direction of Atlantic City. Our delegate, Harold Miller, will surely give us a good account of his stewardship. Harold will be chaperoned by his "better half", thus assuring his full concentration and faithful representation. On or about June 23d we should give Harold an inspirational send off. Let's do it.

Secretary.
